Square: Lodestone

Outside Circle: Cat's Eye Shell

This grid is intended to assist you to shift your personal energies so that you are in greater alignment with the vibration of abundance so that it is easier for you to attract it into your reality. Malachite is the center stone, which would help you move through layers of hidden resistance you might have to the idea of money. This is especially useful to spiritual people who may have an unconscious program that equates money with greed and corruption on some level. The energies also support the protection of property and assets, as well as adding specific “attraction” of a desired outcome through the heavy hitter of lodestone.

It is recommended that you place this grid where you meditate and visualize achieving your goals or in a place in your home or work that corresponds to the abundance area in Feng Shui. You might want to write down your wishes or detail your intentions and place them under the grid.
